

DEFINING THE GOSPEL

“Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.” —Mark 16:15

If we do not know what the Gospel is, it will be impossible for us to truly fulfill the Great Commission. Therefore, it's important we understand what is meant by 'the Gospel'. How might we define the Gospel? On the surface, this appears to be a rather simple question. However, it's a bit more complex and far more multi-layered than it might first seem. The 'Gospel' is a term that is used for several things in Christianity. The word is used for one or more of the four books of the Bible, Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John—these are the four 'Gospels'. As we know, the term 'Gospel' comes from the Greek word, 'eu-an-gelion', which means good message, good tidings, or good news. Many have assumed this means the 'Gospel' should always be perceived as positive. With this man-centered and shallow concept in mind, the Biblically illiterate, contrary to the Scriptures, have mindlessly assumed the Gospel must be popular and always well-received, like informing someone they've won the lottery. If something is offensive or provokes anger, it cannot be the Gospel, they reason. In their mind, without qualification, the Gospel will always, without exception, be good news, even to the most sinful; this is an unfortunate and erroneous understanding. I contend, the word Gospel literally meaning 'good news' only tells us that the Gospel of Jesus Christ is good, holy, virtuous, and right—to this we agree. Hence, the Bible's defining the Gospel as 'good news' is not wicked man's perception, but God's declaration. The Gospel, according to God, is 'good news' whether men believe or not, or whether they hate it or not.

Let's explore what the Bible says. In this brief essay I propose to specifically address five Gospel categories...

- I. First, the Marrow of the Gospel.
- II. Second, the Broader View of the Gospel.
- III. Third, the Conditions of the Gospel.
- IV. Fourth, the Conditions to Preach the Gospel.
- V. Finally, the Practical Preaching of the Gospel.

We will begin our discussion with...

THE MARROW OF THE GOSPEL

“Moreover, brethren, I declare unto you the gospel which I preached unto you, which also ye have received, and wherein ye stand; By which also ye are saved, if ye keep in memory what I preached unto you, unless ye have believed in vain. For I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins according to the scriptures; And that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day according to the scriptures... —1 Corinthians 15:1-4

This passage is considered the most abridged Biblical Definition of the Gospel. Here, in 1 Corinthians 15, the word ‘Gospel’ is used very precisely by the Apostle Paul for the central doctrines of Christianity. Namely, concerning Jesus, his death, burial, and resurrection. This is what we’ll refer to as the marrow of the Gospel and the following is an excellent encapsulating definition...

“The good news concerning all that God has graciously done through the finished work of Jesus Christ that man may be justly restored to fellowship with Him and conformed to the image of His Son to the end that God would be eternally glorified in and through his Church.” —Charlie Kennon¹

Again, this narrow definition of the Gospel centers on the ministry of the Lord Jesus Christ and especially His atonement at Calvary. Contained therein, are essential truths at the heart of the atonement—the cross, the blood, the substitutionary death, the burial, and triumphant resurrection of Jesus. Declaring Jesus Christ and Him crucified is to point lost, humbled, and sinful humanity to the finished work of Christ as the only remedy for sin. Admittedly, no one can be born of God without believing, identifying with, and focusing on Jesus and His atoning work as the absolute object of their faith. On no other ground can we be justified, forgiven, and delivered from sin. Indeed, the sole foundation for our reconciliation to God is the atonement work of Jesus Christ. As Paul declared, it’s by this Gospel preached and received, men are both born of God and stand in the spirit. However, allow me to bring your attention again to 1 Corinthians 15:3-4...

“For I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received...”
—1 Corinthians 15:3a

The Apostle’s use of the word first clearly indicates there is an order of presentation. Gospel preaching doesn’t begin with the resurrection, but with how Christ died for our sins.

“...how that Christ died for our sins according to the scriptures; And that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day according to the scriptures...”
—1 Corinthians 15:3b-4

The phrases ‘according to the Scriptures’, allows a broad application of Scriptural truth regarding who Jesus is and why He had to die, that he did indeed die, and now lives. Notice, ‘our sins’, according to Biblical theology, is one of the first issues that must be confronted in Gospel preaching. The following words of Jesus, Luke’s Gospel, confirms and somewhat expands on the marrow of the Gospel...

“Then opened he their understanding, that they might understand the scriptures, And said unto them, Thus it is written, and thus it behoved Christ to suffer, and to rise from the dead the third day: And that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem. And ye are witnesses of these things. And, behold, I send the promise of my Father upon you: but tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem, until ye be endued with power from on high.”
—Luke 24:45-49

According to Strong’s Greek Dictionary, the word, ‘repentance’, translated from the Greek word, μετάνοια means, ‘compunction, or guilt of sin leading to a reversal, a change of mind, including a moral reformation’. While, ‘remission of sin’, taken from the Greek word, ἄφεσις means, ‘forgiveness, pardon for sin, as well as the release from its bondage, deliverance, and liberty’.² Here, Jesus presents a similar summary of the Gospel as we read in 1 Corinthians 15. Repentance and remission of sin is cited by the Lord Jesus which essentially covers the Biblical truth of ‘our sins’, if you will. Repentance and remission of sins encompasses the need to address man’s sin, its bondage, consequences, and divine remedy. Within these two Gospel essentials are the great Bible doctrines of the fall of man, God’s moral law, justification, entire sanctification, etc.

Hence, 1 Corinthians 15:1-4 is indeed the marrow of the Gospel, yet this marrow does not fully define the Biblical Gospel. In fact, many people falsely believe that to preach the Gospel demands an exclusive declaration of the death, burial and resurrection of Jesus. The Bible does not bear this out.

THE BROADER VIEW THE GOSPEL

“Paul, a servant of Jesus Christ, called to be an apostle, separated unto the gospel of God, (Which he had promised afore by his prophets in the holy scriptures,) Concerning his Son Jesus Christ our Lord, which was made of the seed of David according to the flesh; And declared to be the Son of God with power, according to the spirit of holiness, by the resurrection from the dead: By whom we have received

grace and apostleship, for obedience to the faith among all nations, for his name: Among whom are ye also the called of Jesus Christ...” —Romans 1:1-6

Unfortunately, popular notions about the term ‘Gospel’ tend to absolutely limit it to the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ, but this is not true. Notice, here in the introduction of Romans, Paul’s use of the term ‘Gospel’ is very broad. Including all the truths about Christ in the Old Testament and the New Testament. The Gospel concerned Old Testament revelation about Christ (1:1)...

- His Kingly lineage (1:3).
- The Spirit of God’s role in the resurrection (1:4).
- And, Paul’s apostleship to the Gentiles (1:5).

Consider verses 16-17.

“For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek. For therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith to faith: as it is written, The just shall live by faith.” —Romans 1:16-17

Again, by using the term ‘Gospel’ here, it’s clear the Apostle is not limiting his thoughts to initial salvation. For Paul, his Gospel included such matters as justification by faith (3-5), sanctification through the Spirit (6-8), and God’s future for Israel (9-11). In fact, the Gospel, in a general sense, gathers together all the truths that are found in the Book of Romans. Again, consider Romans 16:25...

“Now to him that is of power to stablish you according to my gospel, and the preaching of Jesus Christ, according to the revelation of the mystery, which was kept secret since the world began...” —Romans 16:25

Romans 16:25 demonstrates that discipleship truth was part of Paul’s Gospel. In Romans, Paul is defending the Gospel he preached both to the heathen as well as in the churches he established. The word Gospel occurs 21 times in the four Gospels and the Book of Acts combined. In the vast balance of these usages, the word Gospel is associated with the narrow message of salvation. However, the word Gospel is also used 74 times in the remainder of the New Testament and in many cases, the definition is left ambiguous. In other words, the context of the use of the word Gospel cannot be irrefutably established as exclusively the basic salvation message. On the other hand, there are more than twenty uses of the word Gospel that are clearly associated with something other than an evangelistic message. In many of these cases the word ‘Gospel’ is used to represent the

New Covenant. Or, if you will, the Gospel Covenant, which signifies the full scope of Christian instruction and discipleship (Rom 1:15, 15:29; 1 Cor 9:14, 15:1; 2 Cor 10:14, 11:4, 11:7; Gal 1:6, 1:7, 1:8, 1:9, 2:5; Eph 2:22; 1 Thes 1:5, 2:8-9; 1 Tim 1:8-11; 1 Pet 1:25; Rev 14:6).

Another irrefutable proof-text for the broader view of the Gospel is found in Revelation 14:6-11...

“And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people, Saying with a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him; for the hour of his judgment is come: and worship him that made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters. And there followed another angel, saying, Babylon is fallen, is fallen, that great city, because she made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication. And the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand, The same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation; and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels, and in the presence of the Lamb: And the smoke of their torment ascendeth up for ever and ever: and they have no rest day nor night, who worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name.” —Revelation 14:6-11

Note, our Gospel-heralds here are angelic messengers from heaven, not fallen, fallible men apt to err. Thus, we can be assured their declaration was accurate and appropriate. These angels are said to be proclaiming what the Scriptures refer to as the Everlasting Gospel. This clearly indicates their message as the eternal, immutable, unchanging Gospel message. The passage plainly tells, in detail, what was said. A careful examination reveals there is no mention of the cross, the blood, the death, burial, or resurrection of Christ. In fact, there is not even the mention of the name of Jesus. To assert these particulars were preached but not mentioned in the narrative is the grossest breach of interpretative integrity. If I can add to the Scriptural transcript of this sermon, then I can add to any recorded sermon or narrative in the Bible (there is no concise summary like, ‘they preached the Word’, where speculative interpretation could be warranted, etc.). Here is where our Hermeneutics, our principles of Bible interpretation are put to the test. We must approach the Scriptures with the presupposition that God’s Word is infallible and without contradiction. We are to allow the Scriptures to define and interpret themselves...

“Which things also we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth; comparing spiritual things with spiritual.”
—1 Corinthians 2:13

Therefore, if our understanding of the Gospel is limited to only the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ—but Revelation 14:6-11 tells us the Everlasting Gospel was preached without mentioning these particulars, we're faced with a theological conflict. How should this interpretive conflict be reconciled? Remember, in Bible Hermeneutics there are two basic interpretive principles. One tends to error, eisegesis, the other to a right understanding, exegesis. Everyone reading the Bible is using one of these two approaches to extract the meaning of the text. Eisegesis means to impose or insert from without. While exegesis is to draw out the meaning, relying on both the immediate and overall context of the biblical passage to determine that passage's meaning. So, back to our interpretive dilemma—if we believe the Gospel is limited to the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ. Yet, Revelation 14:6-11, which is clearly defined as declaring of the Everlasting Gospel, does not mention these fundamentals. We can practice isogesis—which would be to impose our understanding on the text. Claiming the absurd and irresponsible idea that though these things are not mentioned, they had to be preached because that's our theological presupposition. Or we can practice exegesis—which is to allow the Scriptures to clarify and interpret themselves, correcting our theological presupposition and expanding our definition of the Gospel.

Another consideration, the Bible clearly says the Gospel was preached to individuals under the old covenant, for example...

“And the scripture, foreseeing that God would justify the heathen through faith, preached before the gospel unto Abraham, saying, In thee shall all nations be blessed.” —Galatians 3:8

Notice, the Spirit of God conveniently gives us the exact message the Gospel was said to be preached in, it's found in...

“And, behold, the word of the LORD came unto him, saying, This shall not be thine heir; but he that shall come forth out of thine own bowels shall be thine heir. And he brought him forth abroad, and said, Look now toward heaven, and tell the stars, if thou be able to number them: and he said unto him, So shall thy seed be.”
—Genesis 15:4-5

True, under the old covenant, the marrow of the Gospel, is certainly revealed via types and shadows. Yet, there is no direct mention of Jesus or His atoning death, burial, and resurrection. The inspired writer of Hebrews tells us in...

“For unto us was the gospel preached, as well as unto them: but the word preached did not profit them, not being mixed with faith in them that heard it.” —Hebrews 4:2

The record of Moses’ preaching, though filled with new covenant implications and typology, has no direct citing of the marrow of the Gospel. The question may be raised, ‘How much Gospel revelation did the Old Testament saints have and how much was necessary for them to be saved?’ Everyone who has been saved, whether under the Old covenant or New, were saved the same way—by faith in the finished work of Christ. The Old Testament saints, looking forward and believing, and we, looking backward. Granted we have better promises, but we dare not underestimate the power of God to reveal Himself. I believe there had to be a minimum threshold of saving truth, like the most fundamental truths found in the marrow of the Gospel. The Book of Hebrews tells us all the Old Testament saints obtained a good report through faith and furthermore...

“These all died in faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them, and confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth.” —Hebrews 11:13

True, they saw them afar off, perhaps not seeing everything as clearly as they might, nevertheless, they saw, they knew, were persuaded, embracing, and confessing what they believed. Jesus testifying of the Patriarch of Faith, Father Abraham...

*“Your father Abraham rejoiced to see my day: and he saw it, and was glad.”
—John 8:56*

So, make no mistake, by faith, they did see, and though I cannot say exactly what each one understood perfectly, we know they knew enough to be justified by faith.

Matthew’s Gospel irrefutable establishes that Jesus Himself preached the Gospel...

“And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom...” —Matthew 4:23

Of course, Jesus did foretell of his atoning death, burial, and resurrection to his disciples. He did speak of these things publicly as well. However, for all Jesus’ recorded public ministry, the vast balance of His interaction with common people, He did not mention his death, burial, and resurrection—certainly not coherently and progressively together. Yet, who would accuse Jesus of not preaching the Gospel, for He is the Gospel?

Finally, we have the record of the Apostles preaching the Gospel throughout the Book of Acts. A careful examination reveals they did not always mention the basic elements of the salvation message. So, we conclude, in defining the Gospel, though we acknowledge the marrow of the Gospel—the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ. We also must concede there is a legitimate broader definition according to the Scriptures.

THE CONDITIONS OF THE GOSPEL

“Now when they heard this, they were pricked in their heart, and said unto Peter and to the rest of the apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do?” —Acts 2:37

This question is thoroughly answered throughout the New Testament. There are four essential conditions communicated for conversion—repentance, faith, confession, and following/Lordship. According to the Scriptures, it’s typically in this progressive order that conversion takes place—repentance, faith, confession, follow. However, before we delve into these four, I want to address the primary condition, faith. In fact, this one condition might be referred to as the marrow of Gospel conditions. Of these four, repentance, faith, confession, and following/Lordship, there is only one that sometimes is used to summarize or represent all four. Namely, faith or believing. Incidentally, there are no occasions in the New Testament where the other three conditions for regeneration: repentance, confession, or following Jesus are mentioned exclusively, coupled with the promise of eternal life, representing all four conditions. Yet, there are many that singularly cite faith or believing—I could quote dozens of Scriptures, but for times-sake, I’ll only offer a few...

“For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.” —John 3:16

“He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him.” —John 3:36

*“Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me hath everlasting life.”
—John 6:47*

*“And brought them out, and said, Sirs, what must I do to be saved? And they said, believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house.”
—Acts 16:30-31*

How do we arrive at the understanding that believing in these verses encompass the other three conditions? Again, this is based on sound Bible Hermeneutics—allowing the Bible to interpret the Bible. We have verses that plainly state that believing on the Lord Jesus Christ is the condition to receive eternal life. But we also have Bible verses, and therefore Scriptural authority, that clearly teach conversion demands self-denial/repentance, confession, and following as well. So, as we approach the Scriptures with the theological presupposition that our King James Bibles are infallible, inerrant, and perfect. Therefore, there can be no internal conflicts or contradictions. We seek to understand the distinctions by harmonizing the whole of Scriptural testimony and arriving at the only possible conclusion, as the Bible is without flaw. We often do this with the testimony of the four Gospels. Occasionally, the Gospels will vary in the details of their narratives. These differences are never contradictory, but rather, fuller testimonies. So, where the Gospel's differ, we harmonize the diverse accounts into one, full and complete teaching of Scripture. An example of this would be—in all four Gospel accounts of the resurrection, the stone having been rolled away is mentioned, but only in Matthew's account are we told how, citing a violent earthquake and an angel—we then harmonize this information with the other three to form the full Gospel testimony. Another example is found in one of the five Solas of the Protestant Reformation, the Latin term, Sola Fide or ‘by faith alone’. The Bible consistently teaches that justification is by faith, but also states in the Book of James, that faith without works, being alone, is dead. So, which is true? Is this a contradiction? Absolutely not. James 2:17 simply offers a qualification and with it, a fuller definition of saving faith. The Scriptures also teach that the faith that justifies is repentant, pure, works by love, is dead without good works, and follows Jesus. So, we can safely conclude the terms faith or believing can sometimes communicate the overall conditions demanded for Biblical conversion. Let's move on to the other three. Again, the progressive order presented in the Scriptures are repentance, faith, confession, and following. However, we've already briefly covered faith and I'll wait and address repentance last. So, what about confession? As we know, Jesus declared in...

Obviously, confession can mean both verbally and behaviorally, but we have a clear command found in...

“That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation.” —Romans 10:9-10

Indeed, faith in the heart will manifest in what we say...

“O generation of vipers, how can ye, being evil, speak good things? for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh.” —Matthew 12:34

*“We having the same spirit of faith, according as it is written, I believed, and therefore have I spoken; we also believe, and therefore speak...
—2 Corinthians 4:13*

This clearly means we should be prepared to confess to others that Jesus is our Lord—to speak the Bible, boldly proclaim we are followers of Christ. It’s clear, without confession there is no salvation, because if we deny Jesus, he will also deny us before the Father. Again, considering the thief on the cross and what revelation he possessed, he had enough to both call Jesus Lord and defend him against the malefactor on the other cross. In other words, when given the opportunity, he had a good confession and if he had lived, I believe he would’ve have proven his repentance by following Jesus. If we believe and confess, is this, in and of itself, enough to obtain salvation? Absolutely not, the demons knew who Jesus was and even confessed who He was in public, but they’re eternally lost. There are many who call Jesus ‘Lord’ who will not be accepted by him...

*“Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven.”
—Matthew 7:21*

We must go on to obey Christ because the Scriptures tell us...

“They profess that they know God; but in works they deny him, being abominable, and disobedient, and unto every good work reprobate.” —Titus 1:16

Which leads us to the next condition—doing the will of God, following Jesus, or Lordship. Jesus was very clear when he stated in...

“And why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say? Whosoever cometh to me, and heareth my sayings, and doeth them, I will shew you to whom he is like: He is like a man which built an house, and digged deep, and laid the foundation on a rock: and when the flood arose, the stream beat vehemently upon that house, and could not shake it: for it was founded upon a rock. But he that heareth, and doeth not, is like a man that without a foundation built an house upon the earth; against which the stream did beat vehemently, and immediately it fell; and the ruin of that house was great.” —Luke 6:46-49

Again, following is a clear condition for not losing one’s life...

“And he said to them all, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me. For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: but whosoever will lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it. For what is a man advantaged, if he gain the whole world, and lose himself, or be cast away? For whosoever shall be ashamed of me and of my words, of him shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he shall come in his own glory, and in his Father's, and of the holy angels.” —Luke 9:23-26

If we are truly born of God, we will do the will of God, which is synonymous with following Jesus, obeying God, etc. and so forth...

“And whosoever doth not bear his cross, and come after me, cannot be my disciple.” —Luke 14:27

“And the world passes away, and the lust of it: but he who does the will of God abides forever.” —1 John 2:17

“And being made perfect, he became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him...” —Hebrews 5:9

“And hereby we do know that we know him, if we keep his commandments. He that saith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him.” —1 John 2:3-4

“Whosoever transgresseth, and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God. He that abideth in the doctrine of Christ, he hath both the Father and the Son.” —2 John 1:9

“Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city. For without are dogs, and sorcerers, and whoremongers, and murderers, and idolaters, and whosoever loveth and maketh a lie.” —Revelation 22:14-15

Finally, I want to address Biblical repentance, which is a clear condition for regeneration, remember Jesus said in...

“And said unto them, Thus it is written, and thus it behoved Christ to suffer, and to rise from the dead the third day: And that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem.” —Luke 24:46-47

- Repentance of sin: (Greek) μετάνοια—Compunction, or guilt of sin leading to a reversal, a change of mind, including a moral reformation.³
- Remission of sin: (Greek) ἄφεσις—Forgiveness, pardon for sin, as well as the release from its bondage, deliverance, and liberty.⁴

“When there is no fear, there is no change of conduct. Where there is no change, there is only a vain ‘repentance’. For it lacks the fruit for which God purposed it—the salvation of man.” —Tertullian⁵

New Testament repentance demands men be willing to forsake their sin. Sin is what separates men from God—no one can rightly preach the Gospel who is afraid to address the sin problem. It is both unscriptural and absurd to suggest that men could turn to God while being unwilling to renounce that which separates them from God.

“He that covereth his sins shall not prosper: but whoso confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy.” —Proverbs 28:13

“Repentance is a change of mind, as regards God and towards sin. It is not only a change of views, but a change of the ultimate preference or choice of the soul. It is a voluntary change, and by consequence involves a change of feeling and of action toward God and toward sin.” —Charles G. Finney⁶

Repentance is one of the most important Gospel declarations of Scripture. John the Baptist preached it...

“In those days came John the Baptist, preaching in the wilderness of Judaea, And saying, Repent ye: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.” —Matthew 3:1-2

Jesus preached it...

“From that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, Repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.” —Matthew 4:17

The disciples preached it...

“And they went out, and preached that men should repent.” —Mark 6:12

³ Strong’s Hebrew & Greek Dictionary.

⁴ Strong’s Hebrew & Greek Dictionary.

⁵ Tertullian, The Pilgrim Road, by David Bercot.

⁶ Charles G. Finney, Finney On Revival.

The disciples continued to preach it after Jesus’ death and resurrection...

“Repent ye therefore, and be converted...” —Acts 3:19

The Apostle Paul preached it, at Mars Hill, to the men of Athens he declared...

“And the times of this ignorance God winked at; but now commandeth all men every where to repent...” —Acts 17:30

From Jesus and the Apostles to the early fathers, both among Arminians and Calvinists, repentance is part of the doctrine of salvation—it is the Orthodox view. Rest assured, no one is born-again without genuine repentance.

“I tell you, Nay: but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.” —Luke 13:3

Now, there is a popular controversy, generally among those of Calvinistic and Antinomian leanings, that asserts urging men to stop sinning is dangerous. People have said this is wrong because ‘sinners can’t stop sinning’. Granted, it’s true sinners cannot produce absolute holiness, but they can refrain from specific, individual sins—no one must be a thief, or liar, or drunkard, etc. Besides, the idea is to promote futility, to stir up and provoke rebellion, so the sinner can see his terrible heart condition. Remember, today many, even most we preach to, both rank heathen and professing Christians, use inability as an excuse to continue in sin. One argument they use is this, ‘If repentance means ceasing from sin, then no one has repented that ever sins again and therefore, if they haven’t repented, no one is saved’. This is not true. Much like New Testament holiness or sanctification, Biblical repentance does not eliminate our free-will, there is always the possibility we can fall. True repentance is essentially to covenant with God, via grace, to refrain from all known sin. It is the declaration of moral law that men are informed regarding their sin—no other way for them to see sin rightly. Granted, if we were telling men that refraining from their sins was enough for them to be justified or to earn their salvation, that would be heresy. Nonetheless, the declaring of God’s moral law, with its intrinsic demands and penalty, that illuminates sinners to their culpability. It’s from this platform of legal obligation, established by the application of the law, which lends moral leverage in calling men to repentance. How can we logically tell someone to repent if they don’t know what they’re to repent for? Imagine, stopping people on a road and urging them to turn around, when they ask, ‘why?’, you shrug your shoulders. Furthermore, I assert to preach, ‘repent’, or ‘stop sinning’, or ‘stop breaking God’s law’ are all synonymous. Telling men they must ‘turn from their sin’ or ‘cease sinning’ is to merely elaborate on the word ‘repent’. Moreover, the law, which we often declare as a schoolmaster to lead men to Christ, clearly demands a change of conduct. If telling men to ‘stop sinning’ is dangerous, so also is the declaration of the law. This is absurd. It's nonsensical in the extreme to suggest a command insufficiently communicates the idea of discontinuing the violation of its injunction. When we pass a speed-limit sign that simply reads 45mph and we are traveling 60mph, we immediately know we must slow down. Thus, it's an irrefutable fact, via God's moral law and the explicit communication of Scripture, that God commands all humanity to stop breaking His law. No one can deny this without doing violence to the Scripture. All men, at the very least, have the moral law written on their conscience. This innate testimony of God provides every man with the understanding that sin is wrong, and henceforth, because sin is wrong, it must be forsaken. Conformity to moral standard is intrinsic to law; all commands imply both an unyielding demand for conformity and repercussions for disobedience. Dictates without the demand for conformity and consequence for disobedience are not laws, but suggestions. Thus, it's impossible for sinners to be exposed to God's moral law without comprehending that God expects them to cease from sin. The moral law's 'thou shalt' and 'thou shalt not' invariably imply 'stop sinning and obey God'. To suggest otherwise, is to wax irrational. Can the adulterer who reads God's law, 'Thou shalt not commit adultery', which provides both the knowledge of sin and is the schoolmaster that leads to Christ, be justified in saying, 'By this command, I am unsure whether I will be condemned by continuing to choose to commit adultery' or legitimately say, 'This command does not mean I must stop committing adultery'. I would think not. In conclusion, I would assert exactly the opposite of those who condemn our Gospel preaching as legal. If any preacher fails to communicate that sinners, must 'stop sinning', they're not preaching repentance—and that's very dangerous indeed. Thus, it's impossible for sinners to be exposed to God's moral law without comprehending that God expects them to cease from sin.

THE CONDITIONS TO PREACH THE GOSPEL

"Then opened he their understanding, that they might understand the scriptures, And said unto them, Thus it is written, and thus it behoved Christ to suffer, and to rise from the dead the third day: And that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem. And ye are witnesses of these things. And, behold, I send the promise of my Father upon you: but tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem, until ye be endued with power from on high."
—Luke 24:45-49

Jesus' words in Luke 24:45-49 profiles both the Gospel and Pentecost. He here foretells of the Gospel being preached all over the world as well as the out-pouring of the Holy Ghost on the church who would then be the chosen vessel to carry to the Gospel to the ends of the earth. Thus, Jesus forever links these two landmark commands—the Great Commission or the preaching of the Gospel and Pentecost, or the Baptism of the Holy Ghost. And so it is, in the very words of the Lord Jesus Christ we have two basic conditions for preaching the Gospel. Of course, when we say ‘preach’ we mean in a general sense, as the entire body is under the obligation to fulfill the Great Commission. So, we’re not speaking about the specific five-fold, office calling of the Evangelist as mentioned in Ephesians 4.

Obviously, we cannot demand men submit to a Gospel we ourselves have yet to believe. We’ll never accurately represent Christ if we, ourselves, have not been born-again. We cannot urge repentance and remission of sins if we ourselves are still bound by sin. Slaves can never deliver slaves—when God raised up a deliverer to liberate Israel under Egyptian bondage, He didn’t send them a slave, but Moses, a God-called man with a message of deliverance. Today, people say, ‘What can we do to change our culture?’ Vote? No, spiritual and moral darkness can only be addressed by spiritual and moral light. So, the first condition to preach the Gospel is a man must be right with God himself—this is self-evident. I cannot lead people where I, myself, have not gone. However, as our text in Luke 24:49 indicates, the next condition requires the Baptism of the Holy Ghost. This is again confirmed by the words of the Lord Jesus in...

“And, being assembled together with them, commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but wait for the promise of the Father, which, saith he, ye have heard of me. For John truly baptized with water; but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost not many days hence.” —Acts 1:4-5

We also know before Jesus uttered these words, after His resurrection just a few weeks prior, He uttered the commanded...

*“...Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.”
—Mark 16:15*

In the Great Commission, Jesus is commanding the church to go and go into all the world. Yet, here in Acts 1:8, He offers a qualification, ‘First, before you go anywhere, before you leave Jerusalem and go into all the world, before you preach the Gospel as I commanded you, wait until you’re baptized in the Holy Ghost’. Thus, Jesus is clearly establishing an absolute condition for preaching the Gospel. Notice, in both Luke 24 and Acts 1, the Baptism of the Holy Ghost is mentioned in context with the preaching of the Gospel. Indeed, according to Jesus, it’s the Baptism of the Holy Ghost, that fully equips us to be a sound Gospel witness.

*“But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you...”
—Acts 1:8a*

- Power: (Greek) δύναμις—Other-worldly, miraculous power, authority, strength and virtue.

The Greek word translated ‘power’ here means divine power, ability, and authority from without, whereby we can accomplish what would be impossible apart from God. This power is not something we can fabricate or manufacture. It only comes from God by virtue of the Baptism of God’s Spirit. There is nothing so absolutely needed to declare God’s Word as divine authority, heavenly unction, and Holy Ghost anointing—nothing. Human effort, even sincere, biblically informed human effort, can never further the Kingdom in any way. It doesn’t matter what valid Scriptural metaphor you may cite—all teach human wisdom, ingenuity, and strength are absolutely of no use in spiritual matters. If we’re planting a spiritual vineyard, the branches bear no fruit except they abide in the vine. If we’re building a spiritual house, except the Lord build, we labor in vain, and if we foolishly build in vain, great shall the fall be. If we attempt to guard those under our spiritual care, the watchman waketh in vain except the Lord keep the city. If we’re fighting a spiritual battle, the weapons of our warfare are never carnal, but only mighty thru God, etc. and so forth. So it is, when endeavoring to further the Kingdom, this principle always holds true...

“...not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the LORD of hosts.”
—Zechariah 4:6

No one then, apart from the Baptism of the Holy Ghost and the heavenly unction it provides, can rightly preach the Gospel—no one. You could repeat the words of the Bible verbatim, and yet, it couldn’t rightly be referred to as true Bible preaching without the leading and empowering of God’s Spirit...

“For our gospel came not unto you in word only, but also in power, and in the Holy Ghost...” —1 Thessalonians 1:5a

This is an absolute—we can accomplish nothing, especially preaching the Gospel, if we are carnal. We must be spiritual, which demands we be thoroughly born of the Spirit, filled with the Spirit, and led by the Spirit. Thus, the depth of our conversion, the surety of our Spirit-infilling, the accuracy of our revelation of God, and the sincerity our consecration to the Lord Jesus, are paramount. A thorough exposure to God’s law sets the tone for a deep repentance. A deep repentance in turn facilitates a sound conversion, which fully embraces the cross. Consider the Apostle Paul, who had what arguably is the most dramatic conversion in the New Testament and was filled with the Holy Ghost immediately. As a Jew and a Pharisee, his familiarity with the law is without question. His conviction experience, under the schoolmaster of the law, is represented in Romans 7. The results was a life fully spent for God and mightily used. The greatest hinderance to you and I being a witness for Jesus is not so much a lack of Bible understanding, or the need to perfect apologetic arguments. No, the greatest hinderance to our being a witness for Jesus is if we have anything to do with it at all. We must be empty vessels, sensitive to God's Spirit, understanding we have nothing to contribute in and of ourselves. Suffice it to say, we cannot develop a sensitivity to Jesus watching hours of YouTube every day—only in prayer, having his burden, truly being moved with a burden, will we be found useful.

“The Lord GOD hath given me the tongue of the learned, that I should know how to speak a word in season to him that is weary: he wakeneth morning by morning, he wakeneth mine ear to hear as the learned.” —Isaiah 50:4

In ministry of every sort, any and every part of Scripture is a possible applied topic. Understand, no one is a naturally inclined to be a witness for Jesus. We are called to do the impossible, to represent a God so above, beyond, and other. Who is sufficient? Notice, what Jesus said the results of the Baptism of the Holy Ghost would be...

“...and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.” —Acts 1:8b

- Witnesses: (Greek) μάρτυς—Eye-witness spectators, those with a legal testimony, or a martyr.

The infilling of God's Spirit provides power to live holy, power to die, grace to embrace the cross and thereby be removed from the evangelistic equation. Holy Ghost preaching is God speaking thru empty vessels. Hence, the absolute is established: a man who is not Baptized in the Holy Ghost is ill-equipped to be a sound witness for Jesus.

FINALLY, THE PRACTICAL PREACHING OF THE GOSPEL

“But the word of the Lord endureth for ever. And this is the word which by the gospel is preached unto you.” —1 Peter 1:25

Notice, the Apostle Peter, under divine inspiration, tells us the Gospel is preached via the Word of the Lord. Certainly, the term the Word of the Lord can refer to the whole of the Scripture. However, throughout Bible, the Word of the Lord usually represents a more specific application of Scripture. Generally, a timely, relevant word—an applicable portion, taken from the whole of the Bible, and appropriately delivered under divine anointing.

“...but unto us they did minister the things, which are now reported unto you by them that have preached the gospel unto you with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven.” —1 Peter 1:12b

Such declaration is Spirit-led, Spirit empowered preaching rich with Scriptural content and authority. We must remember, a distinction should be made between the entire Bible and the specific Bible truth someone needs at any given moment. Scriptural truths are always ‘Biblical facts’, but ‘Biblical facts’ are not always ‘the Word of the Lord’.

“If any man speak, let him speak as the oracles of God...” —1 Peter 4:11a

- Oracle: (Greek) λόγιον—A brief divine utterance taken from the whole—or what God wants to say to someone right now, in time.

To speak as the oracles of God demands we speak according to the Scriptures, but obviously, not necessarily to recite all of Scripture at once. As we evangelize, we may give sinners, ‘Biblical facts’ but unless we’ve given them, ‘the Word of the Lord’ we’ve failed. The God-called preacher is obligated to give people not just facts from the Scriptures, but the Living Word. By the Living Word, we mean, the Scriptural truth God desires to apply to that particular person at that given moment...

“...and a word spoken in due season, how good is it!” —Proverbs 15:23b

Biblical facts are general, while the Word of the Lord is specific and often offensive.

*“A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver. As an earring of gold, and an ornament of fine gold, so is a wise reprove upon an obedient ear.”
—Proverbs 25:11-12*

As an illustration, consider the following analogy:

Suppose as I am traveling along the highway, I see a gentleman who is pulled over on the curb-side with his car’s hood up, with a busted radiator hose. As I pull up behind him and approach his vehicle to offer assistance, I reach in the back of my pick-up truck and pull out a prized shovel. After greeting the man, I began to thoroughly expound on the virtues and multiple uses of my shovel, all while his immediate problem is ignored. Now, no matter how thorough and how accurate my discourse on the shovel has been, I have not addressed the problem at hand. Indeed, I have given the man truth but I did not give him the truth he needed right now. You may say, ‘But, you did not lie.’ No, of course not. Again, you may ask, ‘Isn’t what you said factual?’ Yes, but the help I offered did not confront the very issue that has side-lined this stranded traveler. I have given this unfortunate man some facts but refused to give him the truth that will address and remedy his current condition.

Likewise, men claiming to preach the ‘Gospel’ often spew “Biblical facts” but refuse to give the sinners what they need, which is the “Word of the Lord”. So often this is the case with false evangelists. It is not so much what they say, but what they refuse to say that defines their error. True, they may not be propagating flagrant and outright lies, but they are not allowing God, for various reasons, to speak directly to the issues at hand.

So, when discussing evangelism, or the practical application of the Gospel, we must be careful to recognize the dynamics true Gospel preaching. Gospel preaching is never static but dynamic. It’s animated, blunt, and directed by the agency of God’s Spirit who intimately knows the heart of the Gospel audience. In other words, Gospel preaching is God using His ordained vessel of the Church to communicate, while responding appropriately to the heart and response of the hearers.

We understand, the pattern of divine revelation is the Scriptures, and the nature of that revelation is both incremental and progressive. Remember, God didn’t just throw a complete Bible out of heaven. No, there was a divine order in which it was given. This is also reflected in the way Canon is arranged. The Bible opens with Creation, the fall of man, judgment for sin, the law, the Prophets, the Gospels, then the Epistles with Christian instruction, etc. and so forth. In this pattern, there is an application in Gospel presentation. In a very general sense—first law, then grace. As the Bible teaches, by the law, the moral law, is the knowledge of sin and the same is a schoolmaster to bring us to Christ. Thus, the law, as demonstrated by God’s order of revelation, is a necessary preface to preparing the sinner’s heart for the marrow of the Gospel.

“The law of the LORD is perfect, converting the soul...” —Psalms 19:7

The law is clearly a spiritual catalyst for conviction that leads to conversion. No one, apart from a thorough preparation by moral law can or will submit to the Gospel.

“They will never accept grace until they tremble before a just and holy law.”
—Charles Haddon Spurgeon⁷

⁷ Charles Haddon Spurgeon.

The Apostle Paul said in...

“But we know that the law is good, if a man use it lawfully; Knowing this, that the law is not made for a righteous man, but for the lawless and disobedient, for the ungodly and for sinners, for unholy and profane, for murderers of fathers and murderers of mothers, for manslayers, For whoremongers, for them that defile themselves with mankind, for menstealers, for liars, for perjured persons, and if there be any other thing that is contrary to sound doctrine; According to the glorious gospel of the blessed God, which was committed to my trust.”

—1 Timothy 1:8-10

Here, the Apostle Paul teaches the use of the moral law was something that’s clearly a lawful part of Gospel declaration. Again, it would be error to tell someone, ‘All you have to do to be saved is to keep the law’, but there is absolutely nothing wrong with urging men to ‘Keep the law’. Someone says, ‘The law is not the Gospel!’ In one sense that’s true, it cannot save, it cannot bring justification. However, in a larger sense, it’s a needed and necessary part of the fuller Gospel repertoire. This has been understood by godly men throughout church history...

“Undoubtedly both, law and gospel, should be preached in their turn; yea, both at once, or both in one. All the conditional promises are instances of this. They are law and gospel mixed together. According to this model, I should advise every preacher continually to preach the law—the law grafted upon, tempered by, and animated with the spirit of the gospel. There is nothing contrary at all between the law and the gospel; there is no need for the law to pass away in order to the establishing of the gospel. Indeed, neither of them supersedes the other, but they agree perfectly well together. Yea, the very same words, considered in different respects, are parts both of the law and the gospel. If they are considered as commandments, they are parts of the law: if as promises, of the gospel. Thus, ‘Thou shalt love the Lord the God with all thy heart,’ when considered as a commandment, is a branch of the law; when regarded as a promise, is an essential part of the gospel—the gospel being no other than the commands of the law proposed by way of promises. Accordingly, poverty of spirit, purity of heart, and whatever else is enjoined in the holy law of God, are no other, when viewed in a gospel light, than so many great and precious promises. There is therefore the closest connection that can be conceived between the law and the gospel. On the one hand the law continually makes way for and points us to the gospel; on the other the gospel continually leads us to a more exact fulfilling of the law. We may yet further observe that every command in Holy Writ is only a covered promise.” —John Wesley⁸

“Evermore the Law must prepare the way for the Gospel; to overlook this in instructing souls is almost certain to result in false hope, the introduction of a false standard of Christian experience, and to fill churches with false converts.”
—Charles Finney⁹

“The man who does not know the nature of the Law cannot know the nature of sin, and he who does not know the nature of sin cannot know the nature of the Savior.”
—John Bunyan¹⁰

Let the religious hypocrites rage, the declaration of the law still works. Furthermore, with the Great Commission, we’ve also been given Gospel principles. These principles temper and qualify the administration and application of Gospel preaching, for example...

“Behold, I send you forth as sheep in the midst of wolves: be ye therefore wise as serpents, and harmless as doves.” —Matthew 10:16

Teaching us simply that we are to define sinners rightly, according to the Bible, and consequently walk circumspectly, protecting our testimony before the ungodly. Furthermore, here are two more kindred, Gospel principles for Evangelistic preaching, first from...

—James 4:6b ...God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace unto the humble.

From this we understand, law to the proud, grace to the humble. Grace and truth came by Jesus. God only gives grace to the humble. Secondly, Jesus offered words closely related saying...

“Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you.”
—Matthew 7:6

From these two, we understand—the Spirit of God will rarely, if ever, lead us to give the precious marrow of the Gospel to someone who refuses to humble themselves, acquiescing to and agreeing with the law. Remember, when John the Baptist, from prison sent messengers to Jesus asking to confirm He was the promised Messiah, Jesus responded with...

“...go and shew John again those things which ye do hear and see: The blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the gospel preached to them.”

—Matthew 11:5-6b

The Greek word πτωχός, translated ‘poor’ can mean both destitute of wealth but also lowly, humble, helpless in spirit, powerless, and needy. The context generally gives us the usage.¹¹ Moreover, Jesus uttered the following words recorded in...

“The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor...” —Luke 4:18

Here, He was quoting the prophesy found in Isaiah 61:1, which gives us the irrefutable context of His use of the word ‘poor’ in both Matthew 11:6 and Luke 4:18...

“The Spirit of the Lord GOD is upon me; because the LORD hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek...” —Isaiah 61:1

- Meek: (Hebrew) עָנָו—Humble, lowly, poor, and weak.¹²

Clearly, in accordance with the principle of never casting our pearl before swine, God has ordained the marrow of the Gospel to be only preached to the humble and lowly.

“The LORD is nigh unto them that are of a broken heart; and saveth such as be of a contrite spirit.” —Psalms 34:18

“For all those things hath mine hand made, and all those things have been, saith the LORD: but to this man will I look, even to him that is poor and of a contrite spirit, and trembleth at my word.” —Isaiah 66:2

“Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.”

—Matthew 5:3

¹¹ Strong’s Hebrew & Greek Dictionary.

¹² Strong’s Hebrew & Greek Dictionary.

Until men have been rendered utterly meek by the revelation of God the Lawgiver and Judge, they're ill-prepared for the revelation of the Lamb of God. That brings me to another closely related Gospel principle...

“And Jesus said, For judgment I am come into this world, that they which see not might see; and that they which see might be made blind.” —John 9:39

Jesus, accompanied by the Holy Ghost, the final revelation of God, has divine judgment intrinsically attached. Yes, He was sent first to save, to deliver, and not to condemn. Yet, condemnation is sure for those who confronted by the light, shun God's Son. Thus, the attitude of men's hearts and their respective responses to divine revelation, always reap God-ordained consequences. To the obstinately proud—deception, to the humble and contrite—mercy. Contrary to what many assume, God will often deceive the hard of heart...

“At that time Jesus answered and said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes. Even so, Father: for so it seemed good in thy sight.”
—Matthew 11:25-26

The following is a practical example, taken from Scripture, of this Gospel principle being applied by the Apostle Paul and Barnabas...

“But when the Jews saw the multitudes, they were filled with envy, and spake against those things which were spoken by Paul, contradicting and blaspheming. Then Paul and Barnabas waxed bold, and said, It was necessary that the word of God should first have been spoken to you: but seeing ye put it from you, and judge yourselves unworthy of everlasting life, lo, we turn to the Gentiles.” —Acts 13:45-46

Thus, Gospel preaching is not so much about having to mention the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ, as it is about appropriately preparing people's heart, so they'll appreciate the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ. Again, incremental revelation has always been God's standard. Remember, the Jews were a people well acquainted with and informed by the law before God sent them Jesus...

“But when the fulness of the time was come (appropriate time in God's time), God sent forth his Son, made of a woman, made under the law, To redeem them that were under the law, that we might receive the adoption of sons.” —Galatians 4:4

We've got to first preach them under the law before God's Spirit has them ready to be redeemed from under the law. This pattern is all God's doing...

“But before faith came, we were kept under the law, shut up unto the faith which should afterwards be revealed. Wherefore the law was our schoolmaster to bring us unto Christ, that we might be justified by faith. But after that faith is come, we are no longer under a schoolmaster.” —Galatians 3:23-25

Consider Jesus’ ministry to the rich young ruler...

*“And when he was gone forth into the way, there came one running, and kneeled to him, and asked him, Good Master, what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life? And Jesus said unto him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that is, God. Thou knowest the commandments, Do not commit adultery, Do not kill, Do not steal, Do not bear false witness, Defraud not, Honour thy father and mother. And he answered and said unto him, Master, all these have I observed from my youth. Then Jesus beholding him loved him, and said unto him, One thing thou lackest: go thy way, sell whatsoever thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come, take up the cross, and follow me. And he was sad at that saying, and went away grieved: for he had great possessions.”
—Mark 17:22*

Here’s a man asking Jesus how to obtain eternal life. Did Jesus preach His looming death, burial, and resurrection? No, He preach the law? Who would be so bold as to suggest the Master Evangelist handled this man inappropriately?

So, in conclusion, the Scriptural definition of the ‘preaching the Gospel’ is not necessarily concentrating on the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ. But rather, as it says in...

“Preach the word; be instant in season, out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort with all longsuffering and doctrine.” —2 Timothy 4:2

To be equipped with the full counsel of God, filled and led by the Holy Ghost, giving every man, the Word of the Lord. With a willingness to always lead prepared and humbled hearts to the Lord Jesus Christ and the saving Gospel.
